

Mapping from Gender Identity to binary gender used for federal reporting

H1000 is collected directly from students. H020 is derived and used for federal (IPEDS) reporting which allows only binary gender. The objective of this mapping is to populate the H020 federal reporting field in the enrollment and degree submissions with as much student-reported binary gender information as possible from H1000 to minimize the need to assign binary values in the UCOP federal reporting process. The resulting binary gender derivation is used exclusively for federal reporting. If gender information is collected or revised as part of the registration system subsequent to the admissions application then that information can be used to populate H020 directly with F, M, or X values.
